BOY SCOUT READING MERIT BADGE
INTRODUCTION
Boy Scouts of America can get a jump start on their reading merit badge requirements by learning to use the online catalog and then locating books from a variety of genres. Come with a list of six books of four different types (such as poetry, drama/plays, fiction, nonfiction, biographies, etc.). The Boy Scout can ask a librarian about award-winning books that are recommended for their age level and include at least one of those titles. Sessions last one hour and each session must be for six or more registered Boy Scouts of America members. The library has a registered merit badge counselor who can sign off on the first part of each member’s reading merit badge. Contact Alison Colman at acolman@naperville-lib.org or Donna Pistolis at dpistolis@naperville-lib.org to inquire about setting up a session.

MONTHLY TEEN BOOK GIVEAWAY
Bookworms can read and share their thoughts on the books they are reading by stopping by the lower level teen services desk for the Teen Book Giveaway. Teens can take home (and keep!) one shiny new book or Advanced Reader’s Copy (ARC) each month. All that is asked in return is that participants write a review (the good and the bad) for the book taken and bring the review back to the library within the next month. Reviews will be posted on the teen section of the library’s website.

Take a fantastic ride through time celebrating the 1920s through 1990s. Each month, historian Jim Gibbons will discuss a different decade, this month focusing on the 1930s. Unlike the previous decade, the 1930s was an era of hardships. Families struggled to put food on the table and clothing on their backs, work opportunities were scarce and the American Dream seems to be an unachievable pursuit. However, the age of radio made worldwide communication possible, swing music and movies reminded Americans that there is “no place like home” and magic and romance still existed. Political figures, Roosevelt and Gandhi, marked their historical stance while Dictators Hitler and Mussolini spread fascism throughout the decade, culminating in the start of WWII.

VEGETABLE GARDENING FOR COWARDS
This is the talk for people who are absolutely convinced that they cannot grow anything. Presenter Deborah Niemann is not a master gardener, but her family does grow the majority of their fruits and vegetables. Niemann is the author of, “Homegrown and Homemade: A Practical Guide to More Self-Reliant Living” and “Ecotrifty: Cheaper, Greener Choices for a Happier, Healthier Life.”
